The Quebracho Youth and Sports Center is a non-profit organization that seeks to promote education, transmit values and work ethic through sports

BOXING AND ATHLETISM IS PRACTICED IN QUEBRACHO, BUT IT IS MUCH MORE THAN JUST A GYM

The Center works in Uruguay with some 100 low income teenagers works with more than 100 low-income teenagers and families in Uruguay.

Quebracho is a positive influence its surrounding community, while volunteers and staff guide teenagers to get ahead.

SPORTS

Boxing plays a key role at Quebracho. It demands persistence, daily dedication and commitment, which simultaneously boost study and work. Athletism is also practiced in Quebracho with the same objective.

INTEGRATION

Volunteers are the essence of Quebracho. They dedicate their time as teachers and tutors personalized academic support. They participate in the gym activities, skills workshops and even get involved in cooking dinners and community dinners. In addition, the teen's families are an integral part of Quebracho, their participation aims to be a leading positive influence that will create sustainable change in the surrounding neighborhood.

EDUCATION

Teenagers receive educational support so as to continue their secondary and vocational schooling. Quebracho holds workshops on values and culture to promote adolescent social integration into the greater Montevideo area. Quebracho also provides vocational and job placement services. The team is committed to bolstering the individual aspirations of its students, providing them greater future opportunities.
